Schloss Schauenstein is a historical alpine castle, which features Andreas Caminada's award-winning restaurant, one of the top 50 restaurants in the world. Caminada had worked at several top places in Switzerland and in neighbouring countries before he started his own restaurant in 2003. Preferably the basic well-known products are used in his kitchen and can be interpreted in many different ways so that there is a surprise for every guest. The plates are masterpieces in themselves, they are awash with colour, craft, not to mention taste.

Restaurant Stucki in Basel is a place of great culinary heritage: this is where the Grand Seigneur Hans Stucki once cooked. In 2008 top Chef Tanja Grandits and her husband René Graf Grandits took over the place and immediately won guests' and food critics' hearts with their refreshing and caring hospitality. „Aroma Kitchen“ is what Tanja Grandits calls her culinary philosophy. It succeeds not only when tastes harmonize with each other perfectly, but also when contrasting flavours and textures, such as crispy and creamy, or juicy and spicy, meet in the mouth. The restaurant has 2 Michelin stars and 18 Gault Millau points.
